LONDON, FEBRUARY 4.

In the courſe of the debate in the Houſe of Commons, yeſterday, Mr. Erſkine pronounced a very eloquent eulogy on the late American General WASHINGTON.

FEBRUARY, 22.

THE NEW LOAN.

Yeſterday Mr. Pitt contracted with Meſſrs Roberts and Co. Sir Francis Baring, and Mr. Giles, for the loan of twenty millions and an half; which he obtained at the rate of 4l. 14s. 2d. intereſt per cent; and this too in the eighth year of this expenſive war. It is more advantageous than during the laſt five years of hoſtility.

Notwithſtanding the terms of the Loan, the ſcript bore a premium of 2¼ per cent. to 3 per cent. immediately.

FEBRUARY 24.

Yeſterday morning an expreſs reached our office from Dover, with the Paris papers to the 19th inſtant, inclusive. They contain intelligence of the moſt important nature; which we are happy to find confirmed by advices received on Saturday from Holland, dated the 18th inſtant.

Letters from Straſburg, of the 15th, and from Vienna of the 2d and 3d inſtant announce, that a courier arrived at the latter place on the morning of the 2d, from Peterſburg, with diſpatches containing the determination of the Emperor Paul to continue the continental war againſt the common enemy with all his forces. The Ruſſian troops have accordingly been ordered to return once more to the Rhine. As this reconciliation is underſtood to have been the work of marſhal Suwarrow, in conſequence of the conferences held at Prague, we are authorſed to entertain the moſt ſanguine hopes of ultimate ſucceſs, as it is evident how much that brave and noble commander has at heart the real intereſts of Europe. It appears alſo, that the cabinet of Vienna has refuſed a ſecond time the overtures of Buonaparte. We moſt ſincerely congratulate the public on this very intereſting intelligence.

FEBRUARY 27.

The conſular guard eſtabliſhed at Paris, is to conſiſt of three thouſand ſix hundred men, moſt of whom are ſomething above the common rank of ſoldiers. Maurat, brother in law to Buonaparte, is the commander of this corps, and madame Buonaparte's ſon is the captain of the Guides. Great expence has been employed in mounting this guard, which is placed on a ſimilar footing with the Swiſs guards under the ancient regime. A hall has been fitted up in the Thuilleries, in the moſt ſplendid manner, as a rendezvous for them.

Baudin, who commanded at Ancona, has been killed at Genoa by a ſtab of a knife. Barthelemy, late a member of the directory, named a candidate, by Buonaparte, for the conſervative ſenate, has been elected a member.

The ſtate of Switzerland is, in every reſpect, truly deplorable: the children of the moſt opulent perſons can no longer be ſubſiſted, and hundreds of them are continually ſent from the interior of the country to the frontiers, where there is a better chance of procuring the meaus of exiſtence.

A farmer near Exeter, miſſing one of his ſheep laſt week, in ſearching his fields, found the ſkin and head attached to it with the following note.

"Sir, you are rich, but we are very poor,
So when this mutton's eat, we'll come for more."

PARLIAMENTARY RECONTRE.

DUBLIN, FEBRUARY 18.

In the high debate laſt night on the queſtion of the Union, Mr. Grattan gave a ſmart ſkillipic againſt the advocates of the meaſure.—In alluding to Mr. Corry, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Grattan called him "a parliamentary declaimer, a political pedlar, a trimmer, who comes to Parliament to proſtitute his talents and his principles, firſt for bread, and then for a ſtation; and for that ſtation riſking the peace of the country, and the lives of the people.

Mr. Corry, in reply, ſaid, if he meant to be perſonal towards Mr. Grattan, he "would have accuſed him of aſſociating with traitors, and of having been privy to treaſon, of having created rebellion, and then flying from its conſequences; and of having made that people on whoſe bounty he ſubſiſted, the wretched inſtruments of his ambition." He concluded by ſaying, "the Hon. Gentleman had returned to inflame that Parliament, which ought to be employed in an examination of his conduct." Mr. Grattan in return, was pointed and ſevere; he almoſt in expreſs terms called Mr. C. a Ruffian, a Jackanapes, and a Coward; and ſaid, that had Mr. C. uttered what he did without the walls of that houſe, his anſwer would have been a blow. The Chancellor of the Exchequer immediately retired and ſent in a meſſage by General Craddoc to Mr. Grattan, demanding ſatisfaction.—Mr. Grattan inſtantly left the houſe, accompanied by Mr. Medge. The parties met and fought. Mr. Corry was wounded in the arm. The ball was immediately extracted, and the wound being dreſſed Mr. Corry returned to the houſe before the diviſion.

BOSTON, APRIL 9.

AMERICAN BRAVERY.

Among the numerous inſtances of American gallantry, which have been exhibited on board of our merchantmen as well as ſhips of war; none, perhaps have exceeded the following contained in a letter from capt. Melzar Jay, of the ſhip Nancy, of this port, to his owner, dated Havanna, March 10, 1800. The Nancy mounts 10 ſixes, and had 27 men.

"After leaving Boſton, we took the wind from the S. W. with ſtrong gales, which laſted 15 days, and drove us ſo far to the eaſtward that we fell in with a French privateer ſchooner of 16 guns, 100 men or upwards. He engaged us under the bloody flag, at the diſtance of piſtol ſhot, for one hour. Many ſhot paſſed through our ſails and rigging—night came on, and he hauled his wind, and lay at the diſtance of 2 miles until 10 the next morning; he then came down with his graplings at the yard arm, and grappled us upon our ſtarboard quarter, with his gib ſtay on our boarding ſpar.—As he croſſed our ſtern he began with his muſketry and cannon, thinking to drive us from our quarters, which he had nearly accompliſhed, and began jumping on board; but we rallied and ſtuck cloſe to them with our muſkets and boarding pikes—that they were obliged to return on board, after being in our main and mizen chains, three or four times.

After their graſſes, (by cutting our rigging that his graplings were laſt to) he cleared his jib ſtay and we parted. We had one man killed, and ſeven wounded; but none of us mortally. One nine pound ſhot went through the foremaſt, and one through the mainmaſt; likewiſe a number of ſmaller ſhot.

Our main top ſhot much to pieces, & 20 ſhot through our mizen maſt. In fact, when they left us, there was at leaſt 3000 ſhot of different kinds through our hull, ſails and rigging. Our topſail, top gallant haulyards, jib ſtay, topping lift and braces, were all ſhot away—yards down on the caps, ſails overboard, and the ſhip on fire in three or four different places. He lay with his head one way, and we the other, for two hours. After I had got my braces reeve, and topſail ſet, and ſtood on my courſe, he came after me again; about 4 o'clock he overtook and gave us another broadſide, and we returned it. He then hauled his wind and left us—which was 36 hours from the time he fell in with us.

"I claim no merit; but you may be aſſured that we did honor to the American flag, and defended your property with gallantry."

APRIL 16.

FROM EUROPE.

☞ Since our laſt, there has been an arrival from England, which has brought down the London dates to Feb. 13th.—No event of very great importance has tranſpired. That of the greateſt intereſt, is the ſeceſſion of the Ruſſian forces from the allied armies oppoſed to France. This event is announced as certain, in a Hamburg paper, of February 4th; and is commented on as probable, in the London government and Gazettes. The cauſe of the final rupture is not aſſigned; but the Britiſh government is taking meaſures to heal the breach, and to unite the Emperors. In the mean time, the Ruſſian troops continue in Bavaria, where they are now clothed and recruited.

No military operations of moment had taken place. The French army, under Moreau, occupied the left, and were making preparations to paſs over the right bank of the Rhine. The Archduke Charles had his head quarters at Donaueſchingen, in Swabia; and had detached 12,000 men to reinforce Generals Melas and Klanau, in Italy, where Gen. Maſſena had gained ſome advantages in the vicinity of Coni. In both armies, which extend from Menta to Zurich, every thing was in preparation for an immediate opening of a very ſanguinary campaign.

Preparations indicate that another [Penobſcot] expedition is on foot in England, againſt France or Holland;—the former moſt probably. It is to be commanded by the gallant Abercrombie; and the Ruſſian troops lately employed in Holland, which have been cantoned in Guernſey, are to aſſiſt in it, under the command of the Count Vionenil, an officer of great ability, and who ſerved in the United States under General Rochambeau. The French are in great force in the weſtern provinces, under General Brune, to receive their viſitants.

An event which arreſts ſome of the public attention, is the aſſembling of a Pruſſian army of 100,000 men, under Gen. Mollendorf. The object is only conjectured.

The war in the interior of France aſſumes various aſpects;—the Chouans, like hornets, are no ſooner beaten in one quarter, than they build in another.—The Chief Conſul has taken every meaſure to ſuppreſs or extirpate them. He has ordered the eraſure of many of their chiefs from the liſts of emigrants; has directed that the ancient prieſts be permitted to officiate in the chapels, as formerly—and that a general amneſty ſhould be granted to thoſe who ſurrendered their arms. It was ſaid that many of the chiefs had embraced the Conſul's terms; and that peace would in all probability ſpeedily viſit thoſe provinces which have ſo long been ſtained by kindred blood ſpilt in civil broil.

The union of Ireland with Great Britain arreſts much of the public attention in both kingdoms. On the 5th of February, the ſubject was ſubmitted to the conſideration of the Iriſh parliament, by a royal meſſage. By the article of union, Ireland is to become an integral part of the kingdom, which after Jan. 1801, is to bear the name of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; which is to be repreſented by one parliament; to which Ireland is to ſend thirty two peers and one hundred commoners; and the churches of Great Britain and Ireland are to be united into one church. The queſtion to take the meſſage into conſideration brought forth all the force of the oppoſers of the union, and the debate was carried with an unuſual degree of acrimony. The motion was, notwithſtanding, carried 158 to 115. Great tumults were occaſioned by the meaſure, in Dublin; and a ſtrong military force was employed to protect the Union members from outrage.

The Engliſh Channel Fleet, commanded by Sir Alan Gardner, ſailed the 6th February for the coaſt of France. It contained 22 ſail of the line, eight of whom three deckers.

APRIL 18.

FROM EUROPE—AGAIN.

We are now favored with frequent arrivals from that ſcene of intereſting events. The lateſt information is by the Helen, Capt. Haraden. London papers by her, are to the 28th of February. The expectation of the ſeceſſion of the Ruſſians is likely to be diſappointed. "The Times" of Feb 24, ſtates, with great confidence, that the emperor Paul has not only determined to ſuffer the troops which were active againſt France the laſt campaign, to continue in her ſervice, but to employ his whole force; and the ſame paper, contains a number of articles ſtrongly corroborative of the important fact. The Germans and French are on the point of recommencing hoſtilities on the Rhine, after a natural ceſſation. Some ſkirmiſhing has already occurred. It continues to be rumored that Buonaparte will take the field in perſon. The chief conſul of France has written a friendly letter to the Emperor of Germany, with propoſals of pacification; which ſome people ſay he rejected without heſitation and others, that he received with complaiſancy.

VERGENNES, [in VERMONT
April 10.

We hear from Milton, in this ſtate, that on the night of the 3d inſtant, the houſe of Mr. Holgate, of that town, with all his furniture and papers, was conſumed by fire. A maid who lived in the family and one of his children alſo periſhed in the conflagration. Perhaps a tranſaction more ſtrongly evidencing the depravity of human nature never took place. From the beſt information we have been able to obtain, the facts are as follows:

The day preceding the fire, a controverſy happened between Mr. Holgate and his wife, on account of her having ſecreted his books and papers, in conſequence of which ſhe threatened to burn the houſe and him with it. The family however, as uſual retired, having no idea that ſhe could perpetrate ſo ſhocking a deed; but in the dead of night were awakened by the fire, which raged with ſuch fury as rendered it impoſſible with all their exertions to extinguiſh it. In this ſituation Mr. Holgate ran through the flames to the room in which two children ſlept, caught the bed on which he ſuppoſed they were, in his arms, and returned through the fire; when to his aſtoniſhment he found but one of the children, who, as well as himſelf was conſiderably burned, the other child, it is ſuppoſed, having been awakened by the noiſe, had previouſly crept from the bed and periſhed by the flames. In the mean time a man who ſlept in the ſtore, which adjoined the houſe, awoke and diſcovered the fire, attempted to make his eſcape through the door, but not being able to open it; on running to a window, he found Mrs. Holgate in her uſual dreſs, walking the room, who had given no alarm, notwithſtanding the next room in the houſe was wrapped in flames; he inſtantly burſt open the window, for whom out, and leaped out himſelf.

The next day a jury of inqueſt were impannelled on the remains of the unhappy victims; and on the examination, Mrs. Holgate ſtated in her defence, that the fire was occaſioned by the maid, who ſhe ſaid, ſtuck a candle againſt the ceiling with a fork, and left it burning, from which the houſe took fire; but in contradiction to this, it appeared by the teſtimony of a neighbour, who came to aſſiſt, that knowing the room in which the maid ſlept, juſt as the roof of the houſe was falling in, he ran to a window in the room to alarm her, and that at that time the room was not on fire, but filled with ſmoke; he heard her cries, but could not relieve her.

The jury, after a lengthy examination, returned a virdict of wilful murder. Mrs. Holgate is committed to goal for trial before the next Supreme Court.

PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 21.

Yeſterday came on the trial of Joſeph Berouſe, or Burſa, Peter Aeterſon, or La Croix, and Joſeph Baker, or Boulanger, indicted for piracy and murder; in having on the 19th day of September laſt, on board the ſchooner Eliza, captain Whelen, of Philadelphia, roſe on the officers of ſaid ſchooner, and after barbarouſly murdering Charles Key, ſupercargo, Thomas Croft, mate, and Jacob Shuſter, ſeaman, took poſſeſſion of the veſſel.

Capt. Whelen was the only witneſs, and his narrative alone was ſufficient to carry conviction with it.

The facts were too ſtrong to admit a doubt of the commitment of the horrid crime with which the priſoners ſtood charged, and the jury with very little heſitation, gave in their verdict guilty.]

Meſſrs Dallas, Dupponceau and Moylan were counſel for the priſoners, but offered no defence. Mr. Dallas, however, gave notice, that he would move for an arreſt of judgment.

APRIL 23.

In the Circuit Court of the United States yeſterday, nineteen perſons, indicted for a conſpiracy, reſcue and obſtruction of the proceſs of the law of the United States, ſubmitted to the Court, proteſting their innocence. The Court poſtponed paſſing ſentence on them, for the purpoſe of giving them an opportunity of producing teſtimony in their exculpation.

The trial of John Friez was poſtponed till this day, on account of their non appearance of ſome perſons, witneſſes on their part of the exculpation.

The court adjourned at an early hour.

Alexandria, April 29.

Arrived the brig Active, Palmer, 12 days from Turk's Island. On her passage lat. 32 long 77. spoke the ship Hercules, capt. Dawson, of Fredericksburg, from Guernsey, 45 days out, bound to Savannah.

The day capt. Palmer left Turk's Island, the schooner Betsey and Fanny, John Watts, master, arrived there from Bermuda. There also arrived at Turk's Island while captain P. lay there, the American schooner Tabitha, of Providence —she had been captured off Guadaloupe by a French privateer and a prize master and hands put on board to carry her into Guadaloupe; the Frenchmen got bewildered and run her into Turk's Island, where she was taken possession of by a British Cutter.

Mr. King, the Ambassador of the United States, appeared at the British King's levee, in deep mourning for General WASHINGTON.

A British artist has advertised a whole length Portrait of General WASHINGTON, from the graver of Cheesman. In advertising it, he says, "The General is represented at the moment of the defence of the Bridge of Trenton, on the 2nd of January, 1777. Having dismounted from his horse, and having observed the critical position of his inferior force, he is meditating the movement, which he so successfully executed the ensuing night, and which changed the character and fortune of the war. The British camp on the left shoe of the river; the batteries playing on the head of the bridge, and the fires which WASHINGTON had ordered to be kept up all night in front of the whole line, where his army stood encamped on the opposite bank (a stratagem which concealed his march) closes the scenery of this excellent performance of art."

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.

The last accounts state that Mr. Strong had 1,990 votes more than Mr. Gerry.

EXTRACT.

A learned Rabbi of the Jews, at Aleppo, being dangerously ill, called his friends together, and desired them seriously to consider the various former captivities by their nation, as a punishment for the hardness of their hearts, and the present captivity which has continued sixteen hundred years, the occasion of which said he, "is doubtless our unbelief—We have looked for the Messiah; and the Christians have believed in one JESUS of our nation, who was of the seed of Abraham and David, and born in Bethlehem; and (for aught we know) may be the true Messiah, and we may have suffered this long captivity, because we have rejected him? Therefore, my advice is, as my last words, that if the Messiah, which we expect, do not come at or about the year 1750, reckoning from the birth of their Christ, then you may know and believe, that this Jesus is the Christ, and you shall have no other."

FROM A LATE LONDON PAPER.

A master of a liquor shop, in the suburbs of the Temple, at Paris, his name Jardin, perceiving that a distressed father of a family came regularly to his shop every evening with his wife and five children, under the pretext of purchasing a gill of the cheapest wine, but in reality only to procure for his wife and babes the comfort of staying a little while by the fire in the shop. The benevolent man found out their lodgings; and one night, on their return home from his shop, the astonished family found a stock of wood laid in for them. This happened but a few weeks ago. During the present enormous price of coals in London, numberless scenes of similar misery from cold, and shifts to procure momentary warmth might be, and doubtless have been, discovered with equal benevolence, and removed, we hope, with equal delicacy.

NEW-YORK, APRIL 24.

The Latest.

By the British Packet Lady Arrabella, arrived yesterday from Falmouth, we received London papers to March 4, (5 days later than the accounts via Boston.) The late hour they came to hand prevented our giving more lengthy extracts this day—we will be more copious in our next.

LONDON, MARCH 1.

Yesterday the first deposit was made on the last loan; and the pressure for money being over, the funds rose about half per cent.

Mr. Gore, one of the commissioners for settling the American claims, had taken his passage on board the Helen, a small single decked vessel, without accommodation for passengers, but which vessel was expected to sail the first for America; but ministers have given orders for the February Packet to New York, to be detained at Falmouth, until Mr. Gore can reach that place and be goes out in her.

The extreme haste and eagerness which were manifested on this occasion by Mr. Gore's taking a passage on board such a vessel as the Helen, when several regular ships will sail in ten days, give rise to the idea that some important proposition has been made by our government.

The credentials of two of the new commissioners from America, who are arrived at Lisbon, were addressed to the late directory, not to the present government of France; and it is supposed that this circumstance has occasioned a delay. The last French papers however assert, that Mr. Murray, one of the commissioners appointed had arrived at Paris from the Hague, where he has resided some time as American minister to the Batavian republic.

PARIS, FEBRUARY 11.

ORDER OF THE DAY,

For the Consular Guard, and all the troops of the Republic.

WASHINGTON is no more. That great man fought against tyranny. He firmly established the liberty of his country. His memory will be ever dear to the French people, as it must be to every friend of freedom in the two worlds, and especially to the French soldiers, who like him and the Americans, bravely fight for Liberty and Equality.

The First Consul in consequence orders that for ten days black crapes shall be suspended to all the standards and flags of the Republic—Paris, 23 Pluviose.

FEBUARY 23.

Mr. M'Cartney secretary of the American legation at the Hauge, is arrived at Paris, and has joined Mr. Murray. He is secretary of the commission at Paris. The other two commissioners left Corunna the 6th Feb, ☞ Letters for the British Packet, from New York to Falmouth, will be received at the Post Office, Alexandria, until the 2d of May, at 9 o'clock P. M.

NOW IN HIGH PERFECTION,
WILL ſtand the enſuing ſeaſon at Mr. E. Waſhington's ſmith's ſhop, on Tueſdays and Wedneſdays—at Mr. John Stewart's tavern (near Mr. Ricketts's mill) on Thurſdays and Fridays, and at the ſubſcriber's ſtable on Saturdays, and Mondays, to cover mares at the moderate price of FIVE DOLLARS, which may be diſcharged by the payment of FOUR in the ſeaſon, which will commence on the firſt day of April, and end on the 15th July. Federaliſt was got by old impoſed St. George, and came out of a thorough bred mare which was got by imported Eclipſe—his grand-dam by Nonpareille—his great-grand-dam by the old imported Jolly Roger. The appearance of the horſe denotes ſtrength and activity. Therefore it is unneceſſary to ſay more of him.

THE SUBSCRIBER HAS ALSO A Stout Young Jack,
(got by the old Knight of Malta) which will ſtand at the ſubſcriber's ſtable, the enſuing ſeaſon, and cover mares at the moderate price of SIX DOLLARS.

Patent Ploughs.
Juſt received by the Tryall, Capt. Hand, from Philadelphia, and for Sale,

NEWBOLD's PATENT PLOUGHS. From their peculiar conſtruction it is acknowledged by thoſe who have made the experiment, that they run much eaſier than thoſe they hitherto uſed—and in New Jerſey and Pennſylvania their ſuperiority has given them a decided preference. Should they be approved of here, which they no doubt will, a conſtant ſupply will be kept on hand. Apply to

MARCUS,
One of the Houſe-Servants at Mount Vernon,
ABSCONDED on the ſecond inſtant, and ſince has not been heard of. He is a young lad, about 16 years of age, a bright Mulatto, dark blue eyes, long black hair, about 5 feet 4 or 5 inches high, and of a ſlender make. He had on when he left this place a coat and jacket of dark mixture, black and white, and black breeches—but having various ſuits, one of black, and another of very light drab, it is uncertain which of theſe he now wears. Originally his name was Billy, and probably he may reſume the ſame. It is very probable he may attempt to paſs for one of thoſe Negroes that did belong to the late General Waſhington, and whom Mrs. Waſhington intends in the Fall of this year to liberate—the public are therefore warned againſt any ſuch impoſition, as he is one of thoſe Negroes which belong to the eſtate of Waſhington P. Cuſtis, Eſq. and held by right of dower by Mrs. Waſhington during her life.

I will give Ten Dollars Reward to any perſon who ſhall apprehend the ſaid Negro and lodge him in ſome ſafe gaol, upon procuring me a certificate to that effect; and will alſo pay all reaſonable charges over and above this Reward, for the delivery of him to me at this place.

Ship Maſters are hereby forewarned not to take on board Marcus; and thoſe who are found to ſecrete or harbour him, will be puniſhed as the law directs.

JAMES ANDERSON.
